E-Bit Systems announces merge with Cornerstone IT

May 2012, Sydney, Australia

Leading IT management consultancy E-Bit Systems has merged with respected technology services provider Cornerstone IT Solutions, the directors of both companies have announced. Based in Sydney and with clients across Australia, the newly expanded company has been rebranded under the unified banner of E-Bit Systems Pty Ltd.

The move is designed to benefit existing clients of both companies, who will gain access to a range of new services while seeing no disruption to their existing services – including relationships with account managers. A new-look logo and branding for E-Bit Systems will be launched soon.

The service offering from the expanded and refreshed E-Bit Systems will continue to target small and medium businesses, with a full suite of strategic business IT and CIO solutions including IT strategy, private cloud offerings, business management solutions such as ERP and CRM, and process optimisation. These will pair with Cornerstone IT's infrastructure services, including installation and management of network servers, PCs, communication, backup solution, disaster recovery and helpdesk services.

As early adopters of cloud computing, E-Bit Systems is also passionate about bringing clients the know-how and technical support to successfully navigate this highly efficient form of computing, finally available to businesses of all sizes.

Originally founded in 2000, E-Bit Systems, the principal architect of the merge, has become known for its core promise of providing comprehensive business IT solutions that maximise return on investment for clients. The company's team has extensive experience in the healthcare, pharmaceuticals, recruitment, wholesale, manufacturing and financial services industries.

E-Bit Systems Managing Director Atul Thapar offers 25 years' experience in business and IT, including CIO tenureships at blue-chip organisations. Other key individuals on board the E-Bit Systems managerial team bring with them expertise in fields including business consulting, project management, tax accounting and systems engineering.

Cornerstone IT similarly has a track record of providing highly tailored and quality IT network and infrastructure services by a dedicated team. The company's clients represent a diverse industry base including education, manufacturing, medical, legal, financial, retail, not-for-profit and agriculture. -END
